Olive (Olea europaea L.)

Olive oil is one of the main ingredients of the Mediterranean diets and as such, it is considered responsible for the overall well-being of the Mediterranean populations.

Hydroxytyrosol is one of the main polyphenols of virgin olive oil and olive leaf extract, which has strong anti-oxidant properties.

Pomegranate (Punica Granatum L.)

Pomegranates have been a symbol of health in many cultures and have been used both as food and traditional medicine for thousands of years.

Punicalagins are natural antioxidants found in pomegranate juice and peel.
